Plymouth Hoe and Pier. Plymouth Hoe, one of the most famous promenades in England, has a superb sea view, and on the summit of its plateau bears the Spanish Armada Memorial (1884), placed near the site of Drake's historic "game of bowls." Smeaton's superseded lighthouse stands also on the Hoe, near the citadel. The Promenade Pier, opened in 1884, is 480 feet long, and has a fine pavilion, used for concerts in summer and a rink in winter.
